A children's day service was held in the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening last. The church was very prettily decorated with plants and sheafs of grain. The church was filled to the doors, and the service, which was largely conducted by the Sunday school of over 40 members and Supt. Chambers, with a splendid address to the children by Rev. Mr. Marshall, was greatly enjoyed by the large crowd present.

On Friday the members of the Didsbury Seventh Day Adventist church and representatives of the Neapolis church went to Harmattan for combined services on Sabbath and Sunday.

Elder Adams and Principal Beardsley of Lacombe Academy were present and gave addresses bearing on the work of the society and the message for this age. Special music was rendered by the visitors, a good time being spent by all.

Little and Big Religion

This story comes from Australia, where all conversation turns eventually to matters educational, because every parent is painfully anxious that his sons shall pass the standard which will free them from certain years of military service. A visitor was conversing with his host's small son, and opened, as a matter of course, with the words: Do you go to school now?

Yes.
And what do you learn? Reading, writing, sums?

Oh yes, and I learn religion, too.
Religion?

Yes, I learn the little religion which teaches that we all come from Adam. But my elder brother is in a higher class; he learns the big religion which teaches that we all come from monkeys.

All mothers can put away anxiety regarding their suffering children when they have Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator to give relief. Its effects are sure and lasting.

Put in Human Interest

An old negro preacher says the Atlanta Constitution, gave as his text De tree is known by its fruit, an' it's jes impossible to shake de possum down.

After the benediction an old brother said to him:

I neber knowed befo' dat such a text wuz in de Bible.

Well, admitted the preacher, it ain't down dat way I throwed in de possum to hit de intelligence of my congregation.

A Bargain Offer

Coming this way ag'in? asked the justice of the peace, after he had fined Jimpson fifty dollars.

I'm afraid I'll have to, said Jimpson ruefully.

KEEP CHILDREN WELL DURING HOT WEATHER

Every mother knows how fatal the hot summer months are to small children. Cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery and stomach troubles are rife at this time and often a precious little life is lost after only a few hours illness. The mother who keeps Baby's Own Tablets in the house feels safe. The occasional use of the Tablets prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly—as it generally does—the Tablets will bring the baby safely through. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A fortune is said to be awaiting the man who discovers a way of curing ham after the rind is removed. The skin, it seems, is badly wanted for leather, and about $3,000,000 worth of it is being wasted on hams every year in Great Britain and Ireland alone.

Uncontrollable

Your daughter has so much temperament.

I'm not sure what you call it. All I know is that her mother and I can't do anything with her.

The change of dietary that comes with spring and summer has the effect in weak stomachs of setting up inflammation, resulting in dysentery and cholera morbus. The abnormal condition will continue if not attended to and will cause an exhaustive drain on the system. The best available medicine is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It clears the stomach and bowels of irritants, counteracts the inflammation and restores the organs to healthy action.

Dangerous Talk

Mother, I wish you wouldn't mention dishwashing when George is calling on me.

Why not, indeed?

I don't like it. It sounds common.

Common, eh? We have to eat, don't we?

Of course. And George also knows that dishes have to be washed, therefore somebody has to wash them?

But mother—

What now?

If you keep on talking about it George may discover that you make father wipe them, and he may think the same thing is coming to him if he should propose to me.

Novel Experiment

An experiment new to Scotland is about to be tried at Wishaw, where a seven-day's campaign has been opened with the object of raising $35,000 wherewith to build and equip an up-to-date institute for the Young Men's Christian Association of the town.

A committee of 100 business men has been divided into teams of 10, each with a leader, and these will canvass the 2,000 people whose names are on a prepared list.

At the close of each day's collection the teams will meet and report results and a huge clock erected outside the central rooms will duly record the progress of the campaign.

Our advertising columns contain a notice calling a meeting of those interested in the cemetery affairs on Friday night in the Council chambers. It is now the duty of those who have been dissatisfied with the conditions that have existed to attend this meeting and not leave it for one or two to fight the matter out. All the former trustees have resigned and of course new ones will have to be appointed. It was suggested in "Resident's" letter last week that the town Council take charge of the cemetery and there seems to be no reason why this could not be done. The donor, the late Mr. J. Y. Shantz, donated the land for a non-sectarian cemetery, consequently it belongs to the whole community and as public property should be looked after by some responsible body elected by the people. It is true that the Council are generally business men who are giving their time gratis for the welfare of the town, and perhaps it would appear like a hardship to saddle these men with more work, but they could appoint some of the ratepayers as Trustees who would be responsible to them, or one of the Councillors could be appointed by the Council and two by the ratepayers, the upkeep of the cemetery to be met the same as it is done at present by the funds from the sale of lots. It has also been suggested that some ladies be put on the Trustee Board which would perhaps be a good move. However, the whole matter should be thoroughly gone into at the meeting on Friday night and it is everyone's duty to attend.

When you have a bad cold you want the best medicine obtainable so as to cure it with as little delay as possible. Here is a druggist's opinion: "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for fifteen years," says Enos Loller of Saratoga, Ind., "and consider it the best on the market." For sale by all dealers.

The Council Chamber is a poor place in which to hold a public meeting such as is called for on Friday night. If all those attend who are interested in this matter there will be very little room for them. It would not have cost very much to hire a hall for this purpose.

Sick headache is caused by a disordered stomach. Take Chamberlain's Tablets and correct that and the headaches will disappear. For sale by all dealers.

WATERED BY NILE FOR 3,000,000 YEARS

New Light Thrown on Problem of Human Antiquity by Discoveries of British Explorer

Dr. Felix Oswald, expert on geology and Probate Register of Nottingham who was sent to British East Africa by the British Museum, reports that he has found conclusive evidence that the great lake of Victoria Nyanza has been in existence since the Miocene Age—a matter of 3,000,000 years or so. The lake is of vast extent and lies at an altitude of 4,000 feet, in a mountainous region of the equator. In places it is of vast depth, the bottom probably being below sea level. Dr. Oswald found buried on the eastern shore of the lake parts of a number of prehistoric mammals, including some bones of acanthopithecus and anthracotherium, the ancient types of rhinoceros.

"Our trip," says Dr. Oswald, "establishes the great age of the high lake, the Victoria Nyanza, for it is evident from the position of the old delta that the river of which it is the relic, most probably the old course of the present-day Nile, was running there into the lake at least as far back as the Lower Miocene period."

According to the British Museum experts the discovery of the vast age of Victoria Nyanza throws an entirely new light on the problem of human antiquity. One consequence is that civilisation in Egypt may have to be assumed as probably having existed from 50,000 to 500,000 years ago or even longer. For, they say, if Victoria Nyanza is 3,000,000 years old, the river Nile, of which it is the source, is not only of practically equal age, but has in all that almost inconceivably long period flowed in its present course of over 3,400 miles from the equator to the Mediterranean.

That means, according to the museum scientists, that the Valley of the Nile in Egypt has remained for more than 1,000,000 years in virtually its present physical state, with conditions as favorable to human occupation and human civilisation a million years ago as they were 12,000 years ago, at what is called the "dawn" of Egyptian history. And, inasmuch as the Egyptian culture of 12,000 years ago was as pronounced as it is to-day, there is no way of limiting, by inference, the actual extent of its antiquity.

In the course of the ages the Lake of Victoria Nyanza may have fallen somewhat in level, with a corresponding fall in the level of the Nile in Egypt, so that in prehistoric times the people lived further back inland; so it is further inland that their monuments and other remains are to be sought.

"The heat where we worked," says Dr. Oswald, "was terrific. Tsetse flies abounded, and I have seen the midges come over the lake in a cloud that obscured the sun to a dull yellow tinge, and the noise of their humming as they passed sounded like the lower C note on a pipe organ. Flying cicadas as large as sparrows were common. There were ants three-quarters of an inch long. But what oppressed me most was the dreadful loneliness. Strange to say, the intensely hot air was stimulating to the nerves. I drank a gallon of milk a day."

Accidental Death

At the Hackney Coroner's Court, Dr. Guthrie informed a doctor, who gave evidence, that if a person is at the point of death, and receives a blow which accelerates death by two minutes, that is in law an accidental death.

I shiver at the idea of being alone with her, to tell the truth. Lillas confided to him in an undertone. Why, here is actually a cart leaving a great parcel at the lodge! It doesn't seem mediaeval and right here, does it?

The three members of the Jessop family residing at the lodge were all assembled at the gate, the pretty little white-haired Granmer with her dim blue eyes, handsome Susan, with her red and white cheeks and the gold-haired fairy-like child.

What a duck of a boy! Lillas exclaimed as Harry helped her from her horse after jumping down himself. Who is he?

Edwin Jessop, a great friend of mine.

He looks more like a prince than a Jessop, was her whispered comment as she watched the child, half-mad with delight, dancing round an enormous horse and cart, covered with brown paper, which was being got down out of the cart.

For me! For me! he screamed his great blue eyes sparkling. I know it's for me from my friend Harry.

Where's your manners, Teddy? his aunt Susan was remonstrating. The kind gentleman's name is Mr. Worth. He told me it was Harry, the child retorted. Then recognizing Harry, he rushed at him and clawed him round the knees in grateful affection. It's my cart, for me, isn't it, Harry? he cried. And will the harness undo?

It will undo whenever you like Harry explained. And as you told me you had a donkey, you can sit in the cart and the donkey will draw you about. Then you can carry the toy horse inside with you. You told me you wanted a cart, you know.

You are spoilt! en! Granmer Jessop said. Tidden aught to spend so much on toys. 'Tis a girl plov a man mid a'most use.

Let the child alone, Granmer, put in Miss Jessop. 'Tis only a toy. Teddy can drive in it with his donkey for years. Now, Teddy, have you said thank you, properly.

Teddy was far too busily occupied pulling the paper covering off an animal with a wonderful horsehair mane and tall to remember his pretty manners for the moment. Lillas, who loved children, and who was delighted by his picturesque prettiness, was helping him, and the five persons were forming an excited group before the entrance to the lodge, when a gentleman marched up the avenue towards them and halted a moment in contemplation of the party.

Trim and neat, without a speck of dust on his over-smart clothes, and with no appearance of heat or fatigue about him in spite of the almost intolerable closeness of the air, the young man with the diamond note of interrogation in his tie took in every detail of the small crowd of people before the gates, and of the three tired-looking horses held by a groom in livery a little to their left before he made his presence known.

Then he muttered nearer and spoke to Susan Jessop.

Can I see Lady Anne Daubeney? he asked.

Does Lady Anne expect you sir? inquired Susan, recognizing him from the description she had had of the man who had forced a way through the lodge gates in her absence.

She ought to, anyhow, the young man said, his full lips parting in a grin which revealed two handsome rows of teeth. I have more right here than Lady Anne or anyone else I know of.

Indeed, sir! Susan retorted, looking at him from head to foot with fine scorn. Then perhaps, as I'm going through with Lady Anne's friends, you'll be good enough to give me your name to take to her ladyship?

You can tell her that her landlord has come, if you like, he said thrusting his hands in his pockets and speaking with a slow, provoking insolence.

Thank you sir. I will say a person who isn't quite right in his head, and her ladyship will understand. Will you come through with me, ma'am, Susan added to Lillas; and Mr. Worth, too?

I am only calling at the lodge, Susan, Harry said as he shook hands with Lillas. As soon as I have shown Edwin how to manage his cart I am going.

Lillas cast a regretful glance back in his direction as she followed Susan. Mr. Worth's groom was met at this point by George Anning, who led him and the two horses towards the stables and gardener's house in which he resided, and which lay some yards to the left of the lodge.

Not much of a show here now in the way of service, or anything, eh? the stranger observed to Harry, who had up to this pointedly ignored him. How many horses does Lady Anne keep?

I know nothing about it, Harry answered frigidly, and went on with his instructions about unharnessing the cart to Edwin, who was seated inside it in riotous happiness.

Seeing she has about three thousand a year, it's my opinion she ought to live in smarter style, the young man next observed. I like economy but I hate meanness. And with a title to keep up one ought to show some style. Don't you think so?

I must decline to discuss with you affairs which do not concern me, Harry retorted.

But, hang it all they concern me, dear boy! Because I am the master here.

On his words Susan Jessop appeared again at the entrance gates and addressed herself with much politeness to Harry.

Lady Anne says, sir, she hopes you will come in at once and have tea with her and Miss Morgan. She told me to run so as not to miss you.

Then she turned in a lofty and disdainful manner to the other man.

Her ladyship regrets she cannot see you. She never receives strangers. Perhaps you will write your business.

No, I won't! the stranger returned, his dark red skin becoming suddenly pale with anger. And I don't want to see Lady Anne Daubeney any more now. But I insist upon seeing Lady Anne!

A Leader's Responsibility

If you want to realize your importance, says Robert Burdett, just put your finger in a bowl of water, take it out and look at the hole. It is said, there is very little difference between one man and another, but that little is very important.

A man is said to stand on a little pedestal of his own who makes the most of what is given him. A man who stands on a pedestal is looked up to—is a leader. A leader is one to whom some one looks for guidance. When the guidance is wrong some one suffers. When the guidance is right some one is made happier—hence a leader's responsibility.

The weight of a leader's responsibility is not determined by the prominence of his leadership. It is of little concern to him whether he be a guide block to receive ropes or a driving wheel to a great engine. The important is this, is he in his own place doing his own work, filling his own sphere, and holding his own post in the battle of life? It is of life's certainties—the absolute dependence one upon another.

What would be the force of value of a great locomotive but for the fire that burns unnoticed beneath the boiler? What would be the speed of the great ocean liner but for the stokers who keep up the steam pressure? The full realization of dependence and the keen consciousness of the power of example are elements that are always present when anything important is achieved.

That Was All

A Western farmer, a Dane, applied for naturalization papers. The judge asked him: Are you satisfied with the general conditions of the country?

Yes, drawled the Dane.

Does the Government suit you? queried the judge.

Yes, yes, only I would like to see more rain, replied the farmer.

If it were not for just one little thing, I once heard an inventor say, I would have the greatest invention in the world. That one little thing is the trouble in every man's life.

Never Asked a Fee

A granite shaft erected by popular subscription soon will mark the grave of Dr. Joseph Dawson, a physician who never asked a fee.

Dawson was buried in the little town cemetery two years ago, but his grave always has been unmarked. Nobody knew just when Dawson came. He arrived with one friend—a collie dog and soon established a wide practice. Those who wished to pay for his services could do so, but he never insisted on a fee. What money he did not use for the actual necessities of life he gave to charity. To the curious he said:

I came here from California. There I have a wife and child. I like your town and I'm going to stay here.

For 10 years Dawson lived with his dog as a sole companion. When he died the tribute paid to him was: "He had more friends than any man in the country."

Long Standing Asthma.—Many have suffered so long from asthma and have tried so many so-called remedies they think that there is no real help for them. They should read the letters received by the manufacturers of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy from hundreds of cases once as desperate as their own. Even in long-neglected cases this famous preparation brings prompt help.

General Booth's Will

By his will the late General Booth has left not only all that was vested in him as General, but also his private property amounting to £487 19s to the Salvation Army, while the property (now valued at £5,295) which the late Henry Reed left for the General's private use—and which had enabled the General to live without drawing anything from the Army funds—has been divided among his children—Bramwell, Catherine, Marian, Herbert, Eva and Lucy. Personal mementoes were left to all his children and children-in-law.

Members of the House of Commons when they light-heartedly assented at the beginning of the season to the reappointment of the select committee to inquire in the expenditure on stationery and printing for the House of Commons and the Public Service generally did not presumably anticipate that some of their own little Parliamentary foibles would be ruthlessly exposed to the public gaze by their colleagues.

Few people will disagree when they learn that $45,000 worth of paper is used at Westminster every year and that of this sum $10,000 is for special papers to suit individual preferences.

Blocking Traffic

There were times when McFee glared in the fact that he was the father of nine children, even if they were on the lines of the proverbial human stepladder, but on the day when he was taking them out for a walk he felt chagrined.

He was walking along at a fairly good gait when he was halted by a policeman, who asked:

I say, you, what you been doin'?

Nothing, replied McFee. Why?

Well, what's the crowd following you for?

A Pill That is Prized.—There have been many pills put upon the market and pressed upon public attention, but none has endured so long or met with so much favor as Parneless's Vegetable Pills. Widespread use of them has attested their great value, and they need no further advertisement than this. Having firmly established themselves in public esteem they now rank without a peer in the list of standard vegetable preparations.

More About The Loading Platform

The present generation of Western farmers will never know the difficulties and vexations experienced by their predecessors in the earlier years when no one could get a carload of grain shipped in bulk except by loading it through an elevator. The system forced the majority of farmers to sell their grain to the elevator owners at arbitrary prices, and oft times to submit to heavy dockage and other annoyances, causing continual dissatisfaction. Now however the distribution of cars as fixed by the Grain Act, and the use of the loading platform, provide facilities which enable the farmer to secure satisfactory treatment in the disposal of his grain, and the highest market prices at time of sale. Every farmer therefore, should more and more endeavor to use the loading platform in shipping his grain to the terminal elevators. It is the safeguard of the farmer's freedom in disposing of his grain to the best advantage for himself. If farmers refrain from using the loading platform freely, it might result in its being done away with, because railway companies and elevator owners are strongly opposed to it. It is easy to understand why elevator people desire the loading platform abolished. The railway people on their part say it delays the loading of cars and helps to cause car shortage. This we know to be nonsense, because frequently after cars are loaded whether with grain, coal, lumber or other merchandise, they are sidetracked for days and even weeks instead of being promptly moved forward to destination. It is engine shortage and shortage of competent train men that mostly causes grain blockades on railways and not lack of cars. Let every farmer therefore, do all he can to use the loading platform and become an independent shipper. In subsequent advertisements we will state in detail the savings and other advantages of direct loading into cars compared with loading through elevators.

We handle the farmers grain strictly on commission, make liberal advances on car bills of lading, supervise the grading at time cars are inspected, secure the highest prices at time of sale and make prompt returns when sold. Write us for shipping instructions and market information.

Terrible Itching Got Little Sleep

Mr. T. Williams, Winnipeg.

Until Cuticura Remedies Cured Him

Those who have suffered long and hopelessly from torturing skin eruptions will read with interest this letter from Mr. T. Williams, 115 Pacific Ave., Winnipeg (dated Jan. 14, 1911): "The Cuticura Remedies certainly did work finely. And I am thankful that there is such a remedy, and that I tried it. About three months ago a terrible itching commenced on my body. I could not understand it. It gradually grew worse and covered a large portion of my body. There was also a slight eruption of the skin, sort of a rash. I suffered greatly with the itching and at night time I had little sleep. I tried one or two remedies which did no good, and then I tried Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent. In about ten days I was completely cured."

For more than a generation the Cuticura Remedies have afforded the speediest and most economical treatment for itching, burning, scaly and bleeding skin and scalp humors, of young and old. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. PEACE OF THE WORLD

KEY TO NAVAL PROBLEM HELD BY CANADA

As Canada Holds 90 Per Cent. of the Nickel Product for the World's Armor Plate, Should Export be Prohibited, the Result Would be Decay of Nickel Steel Industry of Europe.

Ottawa.—It has just been discovered that Canada possesses the key to the European naval problem, states a leading article in Conservation, the bulletin of the Commission of Conservation of the Dominion government.

When Schneider in 1889 introduced the use of steel and nickel in the manufacture of steel armor plates he little realized that he was placing in Canada's hands a means for maintaining the peace of the world.

Battleships without nickel steel armor would be utterly helpless before modern guns. If nickel were no longer obtainable, armor construction would go back a quarter of a century.

Canada today produces about ninety per cent. of the world's supply of nickel. Practically all of the remainder comes from New Caledonia, an island in the southwestern Pacific controlled by France.

In 1910, the value of nickel ore and matter exported from Canada to the United States was approximately $3,450,000. As the only refineries in America are in the United States, nearly six-sevenths of the Canadian nickel was refined to the south of the border. The refining process raised the value of the Canadian ore to nearly $12,000,000. The major portion of this refined nickel is used in the manufacture of nickel steel.

Consequently if Canada were to prohibit the export of nickel, the nickel steel industry of Europe would fall into decay, and high grade armor plates for battleships would be an impossibility.

Naturally such a course would be a bit hard on the Canadian nickel producers, but then see what it would do to the world's expenditure on navies.

In these times of wars and rumors of wars it is assuring to know that Canada possesses such a potent weapon making for the world's peace.

Architects Are Asked for Plans

Ottawa.—The architects of Canada and the Empire are to be invited to submit plans for a new departmental building or group of buildings to be constructed along the bank of the Ottawa river west of the Parliament Buildings.

The land has been acquired by the Government, and the former owners are now being settled with by the agreement or arbitration.

Space is urgently demanded by the departments of the Government in Ottawa, which have been scattered through the office buildings of the city in an effort to find room for them.

The late Government was about to erect a big official building on Sussex Street, but before a contract could be let they lost authority to close the bargain.

Some years ago the Liberal Government had a competition among architects for a departmental building.

The prizes ran up into the thousands, and most of the architects of Canada competed. The results were disappointing. Of a score of plans submitted, three were awarded prizes, but none thought good enough to build from.

It is stated that Canadian architecture has made great progress since that time and that such a competition today would produce some splendid designs.

It is probable that the first prize will be $25,000, and the competition would be limited to architects and architectural firms of Canada and Great Britain.

CAPTAIN AMUNDSEN'S BOOK

Complete Account of His South Polar Expedition

Copenhagen.—Captain Amundsen has now practically completed his book about his journey to the South Pole and the last pages are ready for press. The preparation for Amundsen's journey to the North Pole are now being accelerated. The expedition will last five years. Amundsen has just attended a rehearsal, where the living pictures from his South Pole journey were shown. The films are about 1,700 feet long and the pictures excellent. This film will be shown at his lectures and in the course of some few weeks Amundsen will start on his continental tour, concluding with England. He has decided not to accept any invitations to dinners, receptions or similar functions while en route.

No Word of Alliance

London.—The Greek minister in London declared today in an interview that he had no information regarding a formal treaty of alliance between Greece, Bulgaria and Serbia. He added:

Nevertheless, we have obligations toward our brethren who are still under Turkish rule which cannot be disregarded or evaded. In this respect there certainly exists a solidarity of interest between us.

Salvation Army Changes

London.—Commissioner Howard has been appointed chief of the Salvation Army staff, succeeding Bramwell Booth.

Lieutenant Col. Maidment is appointed Chief Secretary to Canada.

ARCTIC WILL SUPPLY MEAT

Vast Areas of Grazing Land Can be Used to Raise and Feed Hardier Breeds

Dawson.—Owing to shortage of meats on the continent and advance in prices, the Yukon people are beginning to realize that Alaska and Yukon territory and all the vast Arctic and sub-Arctic may become the future grazing ground and commercial meat-producing region of the continent. The country is declared fit for grazing for centuries, if not for all time. It is becoming recognized far and near that the reindeer and allied breeds can be raised on the moss of the Arctic in vast herds. The herds of the north graze on moss. The southern herds perish under the blasts of winter. The reindeer and the caribou thrive in the coldest weather.

Already Uncle Sam is officially recognizing the success of the reindeer venture, and meats from Alaska are being sold in Seattle markets. The caribou is akin to the reindeer. From the Pacific to the Atlantic, and over half of the vast area of Canada the caribou runs a natural range. The reindeer can be cultivated nearly everywhere the caribou ranges. Perhaps the moss supply might be greatly increased with expert attention. Caribou now range this country in herds of hundreds of thousands.

Last winter tens of thousands of them were within a few miles of Dawson, and for several winters previous similar herds were on the Whites, and others elsewhere in the territory.

Millions of caribou have been seen ranging the coast of Labrador and along the Hudson Bay.

The mountain sheep is a hardy northern animal which is a splendid meat producer. The yak, a larger, cold weather animal, might be introduced. A cross of hardy cattle with reindeer and caribou might prove a success.

LIVED UNDER SIX SOVEREIGNS

Mrs. G. F. Bull, Old Northumberland County Resident, Passes Away

Cobourg, Ont.—The oldest resident of Northumberland County, Charlotte Potts, wife of late G. W. Bull, died at her home in Brighton at the age of 101 years, seven months and thirteen days.

Of her family of nine children, six daughters and three sons, only three are living, Mrs. Rowcliffe of Melville, Ill.; Mrs. A. E. Lee of Toronto Junction, and Manlius Bull, of Winnipeg. Mrs. Bull was born at Plymouth, England, and emigrated with her father, a ship carpenter, to Canada about 1814.

She lived under six British sovereigns. At the age of 13, her mother's death left her to be her father's housekeeper. At 23 she was married to Geo. F. Bull.

Shortly afterwards she went to reside in Percy township and seventy years ago at Smithfield they kept a temperance house which was one of the stopping places of the old stage coaches.

The interment was at Alton.

Big Land Deals

London.—One of the largest individual land sales ever effected in this country has just been completed here. The purchaser is Lord Joicey, a famous coal mine owner, and one of the wealthiest Liberal peers of Great Britain.

His lordship has purchased nearly 24,000 acres of mixed farm and dairy farming land in the vicinity of Fort George, B.C., for which he paid $450,000.

Captain Hulton, who was responsible for the Sutherland and Desborough deals, is negotiating for the sale to a Dutch merchant of 50,000 acres in Saskatchewan.

Fear Competition of Women Lawyers

Cardiff, Wales.—The Law Society of Cardiff is opposed to women practicing law.

A resolution in favor of the admission of women to the bar was defeated at the annual meeting of the society.

The resolution also urged the council of the Society to support a bill that is to be introduced in parliament enabling women to practice.

The chief ground for this opposition, it is said, was that competition by women would be injurious to men who practice law.

Chartered Accountants Meet

Toronto.—The Dominion Association of Chartered Accountants, comprising seven institutes, convened for the third annual meeting in the King Edward Hotel.

The institutes cover Nova Scotia, Montreal, Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia. The Dominion Association is a central body.

It met last year in Montreal and will meet next year in Winnipeg. Members from each of the provinces were present.

Uruguay Agriculturists Coming West

Toronto.—Hon. Hugo A. Surraco, minister of agriculture for Uruguay, and three prominent Uruguayan agriculturists who have been studying Ontario farming methods, have left for the Canadian west. After a tour of the prairie provinces they will go to England, Europe and perhaps Australia. They have already travelled extensively in the United States and stated today that Ontario's farms were the best they had yet seen.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION

ADVANTAGES OF TECHNICAL WORK IN SCHOOLS

Dr. John Robertson Gives a Very Instructive Address Before the Canadian Manufacturers—Splendid System Established in City of Edinburgh.

Ottawa.—Vigorously condemning the use of any but safety matches for use in the homes, and claiming that to use matches that can be lighted anywhere, too often the lives of children in the home are in great danger, Dr. John Robertson, of Boston, president of the National Fire Protective Association, delivered a forceful address before the Canadian Manufacturers' delegates at a smoker held in the parliamentary restaurant tonight. He said that the association of which he was the head was doing a splendid work and was doing much to encourage fire prevention, giving many examples.

Some of the supreme advantages manufacturers especially can derive from a system of technical education were outlined in an address that made a deep impression on his hearers given by Dr. James Robertson, chairman of the technical education commission.

He told the delegates what Cincinnati, Ohio, and Pittsburgh, Mass., were doing to train apprentices, and even superintendents and engineers in factories to become more skillful in their trades.

In those cities the manufacturers have collaborated with educational experts on a co-operative educational scheme. In Cincinnati for instance, the student works a week in the shop he is employed at and then goes to school for a week during which time his employer pays his wages at the same rate as if he was in the shop. The teachers too, visit the factories so that the mathematics and other studies taught will be closely related to the particular work the student is following. No irrelevant matter is taught.

Dr. Robertson then proceeded to give examples of what Edinburgh, Scotland, is doing and in comparison showed how far Canada is behind in the matter of technical education. Edinburgh has a population of 360,000. At the evening continuation classes 10,000 young people are attending and learning the eighteen different trades taught there.

Eight per cent of the pupils at these schools are youths who went straight from the public school, the fees of which are so nominal that they are within the reach of the very poorest.

The cost of the upkeep of the classes last year was about $75,000. Of this amount the fees of the students paid seven per cent of the cost, the imperial government sixty per cent, and the ratepayers of the city the balance. No one is compelled to attend the class. The movement started seven years ago and Dr. Robertson declared that when future generations look back in history they will pick this work out as the dawn of a new era. He put the value of such education plainly before the convention.

The report of the railroad and the transportation committees dealt with every classification of freight, baggage and transportation. Most of the material in the report of the committees has been called to the attention of the railway commission such as freight rates, size of baggage, etc.

During a brief discussion which followed the reading of the report R. D. Fairbairn, of Toronto, head of the Fairbairn Scale Co., charged the railroads with being over zealous to boost the rates.

The rates to the west, he said, are based on one way only. It is a well known fact that it costs as much to send goods to, say Saskatoon or any other place in the west, from the east, as it does to Australia. The railroads can carry freight at a good deal less rate than at present. The sole object of railroad companies seems to be to increase their rates all along the line.

I tell you, gentlemen, declared Mr. Fairbairn, with vehemence, transportation is a much more important subject to Canada just now than the tariff question. The tariff in many cases is not a factor at all. The Dominion government should carry the intercolonial railroad through to the coast.

We have had a little experience in governmental and municipal ownership and it has met with a good deal of success.

Mr. Fairbairn's expressions were readily endorsed in many respects by Mr. Edmond of Toronto.

No Benefit From War

Belgrade, Serbia.—No benefit could be obtained by the Balkan nations from a war with Turkey, according to a declaration said to have been made by the diplomatic representatives of Great Britain, France and Russia during a call at the Serbian foreign office.

The Stampa is the authority for the report of the foreign diplomat's action and it adds that the powers at the same time expressed their intention of inducing Turkey to introduce early reforms in Macedonia.

In spite of the official denials that there is any prospect of hostilities, the Serbian war office continues to purchase large quantities of food supplies.

Over 18 per cent of the total imports of Germany come from the United Kingdom and the British Dominions.

DISCUSS AFFAIRS OF DOMINIONS

Hon. G. E. Foster to Leave For London at End of Present Month

Ottawa.—The Hon. G. E. Foster will leave Ottawa about the end of the month to attend the coming session of the Dominion Royal Commission in London.

The commission will resume its sessions on Monday. Interest is attached here to the work of this body, the foundation of which is being laid with much care.

The subjects committed to the Royal Commission are considerable and comprise two main divisions.

(1) A general investigation of trade conditions. This will embrace a survey of the natural resources of the self-governing Dominions, an examination of their facilities for production, manufacture and distribution of articles of commerce, a study of the requirements of the United Kingdom and the Dominions in the matter of food and raw materials and the available sources of supply and an examination of the trade of the several parts of the Empire alike with each other and with the rest of the world.

(2) A general investigation of the immigration of population from the United Kingdom to the overseas dominions.

This will include an examination into the various systems and agencies now employed in providing, selecting, directing and sustaining the current of immigration from Great Britain, an examination of the agencies engaged in receiving, directing and settling the immigrants as they reach the country of their adoption, an inquiry as to the possibility of improving present methods by more careful selection and in the case of younger persons, by teaching in schools, training on farms or institutions, or by friendly care and guidance in their new home.

Chinese Troops Mutinous

Peking.—Troops encamped outside the gates of Wu Chang, capital of the province of Hupeh, mutinied and attacked the city.

The troops numbered several hundred and were composed for the most part of cavalry.

A strong force of General Li Yuen Heng's regiment immediately engaged the rebels and after several hours of fierce fighting, dispersed them.

The casualty list is not known, but two officers were executed for failing to divulge their knowledge of the movement.

It is believed that the attacking party only intended to loot the city, but most of the towns in the interior have no defenders from such outbreaks, in which both the revolution and former imperial troops engaged. The military spirit apparently is not appreciated by the classes from which the soldiers are recruited.

Would Enroll all the Girls

Berlin.—Professor Dr. Witzel, of Dusseldorf, advocates compulsory military service for German girls. An army of nurses should in his opinion, follow each army of male combatants not only to care for the wounded, but to attend to everything connected with food and clothing. Every healthy German girl, says the professor, should look on training for this object as a patriotic duty, and the knowledge acquired will be useful in the home if it is not utilized on the battle field.

William Marconi is Hurt in Auto Accident

Spezia, Italy.—William Marconi, of wireless fame, was injured in an automobile accident near Borghetto, in the valley of the Vara River. The extent of his injuries have not been entirely disclosed, but he was brought back to this city with bandages around his head.

He was suffering from a wound over the right eye and his right cheek and temple were badly bruised.

Hurricane Swept Over Japan

Tokio.—A hurricane swept over Japan on the night of September 22. There was much loss of life and heavy damage to property and shipping. All communications are badly interrupted.

A torpedo boat and the destroyers Tachibana and Fubuki were sunk in Ise Bay.

Oxen Win High Honor

Tokio.—Pensions have been provided for from the Mikado's private purse for the oxen which drew the burial car at the late Mikado's funeral. With a special attendant each, the oxen will spend the remainder of their lives in luxury in the imperial palace. The old custom of giving them the junior fifth grade of court rank was disregarded.

Ministers Must Forego Trips

Ottawa.—The announcement that parliament will be summoned in November has necessitated a complete change in the plans of the cabinet ministers. A half dozen members had been expected to make trips to the coast, but will now in all probability have to abandon the plan.

Italy Starts Press Bureau

Rome.—The Italian government has just established a press bureau. All the foreign papers will be read and whenever an editor says anything derogatory on Italy the bureau will try to show him he is mistaken.

London.—Ten thousand school children visited the local flower show at Preston yesterday, at which 2000 scholars had exhibits of plants.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Text of the Lesson, Mark vi, 45-46.

Memory Verses, 49, 50—Golden Text Matt. xiv, 27—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This incident is recorded by Matthew, Mark and John, the latter telling us that when the people saw His mighty works they were inclined to take Him by force and make Him a king, so He departed into a mountain Himself alone (John vi, 15). They saw a man of unusual power over whose rule no one need ever be hungry or sick or die, and some thought it might be the look of a Messiah, and they would therefore proclaim Him king. They did not know that He was really the God appointed King of the Jews and did not understand that the rulers had rejected Him and were only watching their opportunity to kill Him. He knew all things and could wait His time, saying, "Even so, Father, for so it seemeth good in Thy sight." Here is another perplexing item to little faith. He sent the multitudes away in peace to rest, but sent these weary disciples out to a night of toil and into a storm, while He went up into a mountain apart to pray. Again let us say and hold it fast, "As for God His way is perfect." "Just and true are Thy ways, thou King of nations." (Ps. xviii, 30; Rev. xv, 3). If we are His by His precious blood we must be willing to learn the necessary obedience for service in the Kingdom by suffering, even as He did. (Heb. ii, 10; v, 8; Phil. i, 29). Trials are essential as part of our training. (1 Pet. iv, 12, 13). Verse 48 says that the wind was contrary and in John vi, 18, it is said that it was a great wind, and in Matt. xiv, 24, that they were tossed with the waves.

Some one has said that, while the feeding of the 5,000 sets before us our great commission to give living bread to the hungry multitudes, the boat in the storm with Jesus away on the mountain top is wonderfully suggestive of another feature of this present age, the conflict of the church with the world, the flesh and the devil, while the Lord Jesus is at the right hand of the Father on behalf of His tried and toiling people. We are certainly in a great conflict, not with flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against wicked spirits in heavenly places (Eph. vi, 12), and we need the whole armor of God to stand against the wiles of the devil. One great trouble is that we are too ignorant of his devices and are apt to be deceived by his religious activity and think it to be of God. Everything that does not honor Jesus as God and rest only on His great sacrifice for the forgiveness of sins, however religious it may seem, cannot be of God and must therefore be of the devil.

Consider then, the hold that he has upon the vast majority of the people in the world; not only all in heathendom, with their many religions, but a great part of Christendom, including all the isms which deny the supernatural birth of Jesus, His deity, His spotless life. His death as our substitute. His literal resurrection from the dead. His present ministry at the right hand of the Father and His coming again to set up His kingdom of righteousness and peace on the earth. Truly the winds are contrary, and though the storm is not yet as great as it will be, it is already quite severe. In our own land just now the highest among the people are devoted to Unitarianism and Roman Catholicism, and it is far from wise in the eyes of many to say a word against either.

It is a good time for such as Daniel and his friends, for such as will bow to none but the living and true God. It looks like the time when the adversary shall speak great words against the Most High and shall wear out the saints of the Most High, and many shall be purified, made white and tried. (Dan. vii, 25; xii, 10). It also looks to many as if it did to the disciples in the boat, as if the Lord neither saw nor cared. How comforting, then, are the words, "He saw them toiling in rowing" (48). When it seemed dark as midnight to Israel because of the oppression of the Egyptians the Lord said to Moses, "I have seen, I have heard, I know, I am come down to deliver." (Ex. iii, 7, 8). When Peter was in prison, after James had been beheaded, and unceasing prayer was made by the church unto God for him, it was not until the last night that the angel delivered him, but he was not too late and never is.

In the morning watch Jesus came walking on the sea, and when they received Him into the ship the wind ceased, and immediately they were at their destination (verse 51; John vi, 21). So it will be again. In that morning that is drawing near He will come, and instantly His people shall be with Him in the air, their toil and conflict forever ended. Let us all be patient till the morning. (11 Sam. xxiii, 4; Ps. xlix, 14; cxxx, 6). To their fears He said, "Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid" (verse 50). He is ever the same and is saying the same words to all our fears. May we have ears to hear. By His power Peter also walked on the water and might have walked farther if he had kept his eyes on Jesus and had not thought of wind or waves. The one thing always lacking on our part is faith. The admonition we constantly need is, "Have faith in God." "Be not afraid; only believe."

Factories in The Wheat Belt

Possibilities for Industrial Expansion in Western Canada

A special article in the annual financial number of the Globe, Toronto, on the possibility of manufacturing in the West showed that the Dominion census for 1911 will likely reveal a considerable development along industrial lines throughout the prairie provinces, particularly in Manitoba.

Industries in the West

The writer in the Globe said: "At least seven hundred separate industrial establishments will be shown to be under operation in the three prairie provinces, and nearly two-thirds of these seven hundred factories and shops, it will be seen, are located in Manitoba. Winnipeg, alone, has now between two hundred and fifty and three hundred successful operating plants. Saskatchewan, however, will hardly have a hundred industries altogether, while Alberta's roll will contain the names of nearly one hundred and seventy-five manufacturing institutions."

This means, that manufacturing at any rate is gaining slowly in the West; it means too that, at least there are possibilities for the further development of certain industries in that new country."

Abundance of Water Power

Continuing, the writer said: "First you ask, are the possibilities for varying the agricultural life of the West with manufacturers really great? There seems to be no doubt of it. In Manitoba there is a possible water power development of 495,000 horse power, and so far, there has been only 18,000 horse power turned to use, that having been neglected by the Winnipeg electric railway. The City of Winnipeg will have developed very shortly an additional 60,000 horse power. Saskatchewan is still richer in natural power than Manitoba, having stored up in her rivers 500,000 horse power, none of which has been developed, but a portion of which is now under way for the City of Saskatoon. Alberta is richest of all in 'white coal,' as well as in black coal, having at her disposal 1,144,000 horse power, of which only 1,320 horse power has been supplied to any commercial end."

Rich in Raw Materials

In addition to these natural water powers, all three provinces have deposits of various grades. Alberta, of course, having the greatest wealth in this respect. Then there are materials which are native to each prairie province, such as gypsum, iron, etc., and lumber in Manitoba; clay, lumber and flax fibre in Saskatchewan; and minerals in Alberta. Manufacturing, as it exists now in the West, is not based so much on the raw materials at hand as on those materials that have to be shipped in, or in other words, on transportation.

"There are certain obstacles, however, to a natural and healthy industrial expansion in the West, the most among which is the inadequate local supply and the consequent high cost of living. Other obstacles are high freight charges, on manufactured goods, and the obstructive legislation against the so-called 'extra-provincial corporations.'"

High Cost of Living

Dealing with the question of adequate food supplies, the Globe contributor says: "A third great disadvantage, that must be overcome before capital and labor will be attracted in any great volume towards manufacturing in the West, is the inadequate food supply. Expensive food is really at the bottom of the big Western revolt against the cost of living, which has of late assumed the form of an attack against the country's food system. It seems strange that a fertile country like Western Canada does not supply itself with sufficient food to supply its own needs—that if food is to have a greater value than the one staple product, wheat. The economics of the whole situation in the West is that such articles as meats, poultry, eggs, butter, milk and cheese, all of which can be raised most plentifully and profitably, are scarce and expensive in many sections of the prairie that a high standard of life, which has found its way into Eastern Canada and the increased cost of things has extended gradually into every department of our commercial life. Why should not the West which is receiving the greatest number of the tillers of the soil, the days produce the bulk of Canada's provisions? It is that section of the country, not the industrial East, that should be supplying the people with food, and because it is not doing this, the standard of values is being set by the West and being set high. Factories and factory workers will always be backward about locating in these districts, where wages will hardly suffice to pay rent and food."

Very Heavy Immigration

"If the percentage keeps up we shall get 400,000 immigrants from all sources into Canada this year," said W. D. Scott, Dominion superintendent of immigration, who was in Winnipeg a few days ago returning from an inspection trip in the west. Mr. Scott stated that the total last year amounted to 354,237. He drew attention to a fact that he thought was often lost sight of, that eastern Canada was really growing just as rapidly as the west. He said that last year Ontario got 122,000 of the immigrants.

A Hermit for Five Years

WHAT would make the greatest impression on a man who had been shut away from human intercourse and denied the use of newspapers for five years—what would most forcibly attract his attention—on regaining the society of his fellowmen?

"Well," you say, "he is fairly certain to be interested in learning whether there's been a change of government."

True, and probably he will show mild excitement if you can tell him there's been a big war in Europe. But it won't be until you get down to a recital of things that come closer to him, personally, that you'll bring him to his feet with eager questioning.

Tell him a mighty empire has fallen, and—so long as it isn't his empire—a drop curtain of highly embroidered indifference will mask his face.

But tell him the automobile has been so simplified that he can now buy one for the price of a horse and buggy, and he'll promptly bombard you with questions.

A revolution in China may be a world event, but it wouldn't mean as much to him as the perfecting of a shaving apparatus that would do away with the necessity of purchasing new blades or honing old ones.

If you had been a hermit for the past five years, the news of an earthquake in San Francisco wouldn't really mean so much to you as the information that you can now hear any famous opera singer in your own home at a cost of a few cents per hour.

Which is only another way of saying that the phonograph is of more personal interest than an earthquake.

You see how it is: Newspapers carry a "news of merchandise" that is just as interesting, just as vital, as the "news of events" which the editors gather for us.

And, since this "news of merchandise" finds its only expression in the form of Advertising, must we not admit that the Advertising columns are quite as worthy of our serious attention as the scariest "scare head" or the most ponderous editorial?

Shut your eyes to advertising—and you shut out the news of commercial progress and development—the news of things that make life worth the living.

Advice regarding your advertising is available through any recognized Canadian advertising agency, or the Secretary of the Canadian Press Association, Room 503 Lumsden Bldg., Toronto. Enquiry involves no obligation on your part—so write if interested.

MOTHERS! DO YOU KNOW

That when you put a salve onto your child's skin, it passes through the pores and enters the blood, just as surely as if you put it into the child's stomach?

You would not put a coarse mass of animal fat, colored by various mineral poisons (such as many crude salves are) into your child's blood by way of the stomach? Then why do so by way of the pores?

Take no risk. Use a way: the purest of all salves provided in Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk contains no trace of any animal oil or fat, and no poisonous mineral coloring matter. From start to finish it is purely herbal.

It will heal sores, ulcers, abscesses, eruptions, varicose ulcers, cuts, burns and bruises more quickly than any other known preparation. It is a diaphoretic, quickly stops the smarting of a sore or cut, cures piles, inflamed sores and blood-poisoning. It is a combination of healing power and scientific purity. Tongue Twisters

Now that they are talking of having a department for stammerers under the management of the Board of Education, some people are wondering what will be taken as the limit which shall mark a stammerer from a person who has only an occasional stutter on certain words.

If anything of the kind is done it is probable that some learned doctors will devise a system of tests for the powers of speech, just as they do now for the powers of sight. Some day we may see children asked to stand up and repeat something like this:—
She sells sea-shells on the seashore. The shells she sells are sea shells, I'm sure.

So if she sells sea shells on the seashore.
Then I'm sure she sells seashore shells.

Here is another one that should prove an excellent test of a smooth-running tongue:

Kimbo Kumble kicked his kinsman's kettle.
Did Kimbo Kumble kick his kinsman's kettle?

If Kimbo Kumble kicked his kinsman's kettle

Where's the kinsman's kettle that Kimbo Kumble kicked?

Simple and Sure.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is so simple in application that a child can understand the instructions. Used as a liniment the only direction is to rub, and when used as a dressing to apply. The directions are so plain and unmistakable that they are readily understood by young or old.

Rather Thin

Two men, one of them very short, were passing through a station toward the train gates, when the bigger one was heard to say:

I've took a half ticket for ye, George, yer so little ye'll pass all right.

But, protested George, how about my beard? And he twiddled his thin beard nervously.

Oh, rejoined the other, tell 'em it's a mole.

Dear Sirs.—While in the country last summer I was badly bitten by mosquitoes, so badly that I thought I would be disfigured for a couple of weeks. I was advised to try your Liniment to allay the irritation, and did so. The effect was more than I expected, a few applications completely curing the irritation, and preventing the bites from becoming sore. MINARD'S LINIMENT is also a good article to keep off the mosquitoes.

Yours truly,

What Education May Do

Abraham Lincoln walking fifteen miles across country to borrow a volume of the statutes of Illinois and then reading it by the light of pine knots is a striking contrast to the conditions that exist in this era of public schools, public libraries and lecture courses. The road to education is an easy one today. There is little excuse for the one who neglects it.

The most obstinate corns and warts fail to resist Holloway's Corn Cure. Try it.

Room wanted by a student with light and heat.
Rooms wanted (3) by young couple with both kinds of gas.

Wanted—Good milch cow by an elderly lady with short horns.
In an English paper there appeared under the heading, "Startling News," the following: Corns cured after suffering twenty-one years with—Corn Cure.

HARD TO SEE Even When the Facts are Plain

It is curious how people will refuse to believe what one can clearly see.

Tell the average man or woman that the slow but cumulative poisonous effect of caffeine—the alkaloid in tea and coffee—tends to weaken the heart, upset the nervous system and cause indigestion, and they may laugh at you if they don't know the facts.

Prove it by science or by practical demonstration in the recovery of tea and coffee drinkers from the above conditions, and a large per cent of the human family will shrug their shoulders, take some drugs and—keep on drinking tea or coffee.

"Coffee never agreed with me nor with several members of our household," writes a lady. "It enervates, depresses and creates a feeling of languor and heaviness. It was only by leaving off coffee and using Postum that we discovered the cause and way out of these ills."

"The only reason, I am sure, why Postum is not used altogether to the exclusion of ordinary coffee is, many persons do not know and do not seem willing to learn the facts and how to prepare this nutritive beverage. There's only one way—according to directions—boil it fully 14 minutes. Then it is delicious." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

SCIATICA AND LUMBAGO

SUFFERED FOR TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AND COULD GET NO
RELIEF

Now Tells of the Wonderful Results
Obtained by the Use of

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Sciatica, neuralgia and sciatic rheumatism are the result of a rundown nervous system. For this reason all treatments must necessarily fail which do not build up the nervous system.

Mr. Collins suffered for twenty-five years and never was able to obtain satisfactory treatment until he began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills. While the Nerve Food forms new blood and restores the exhausted nervous system, the Kidney-Liver Pills invigorate the action of kidneys, liver and bowels.

Mr. W. T. Collins, Morpeth, Ont., writes: "It affords me pleasure to be able to speak favorably of two of Dr. Chase's medicines—the Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills. I had been a sufferer for twenty-five years from sciatica, lumbago and neuralgia and tried almost all the medicines I could hear of, without one particle of benefit, until I commenced to use Dr. Chase's. I noticed an improvement before I had used two boxes, and the benefits obtained by continued use have been wonderful. I have so much confidence in these two medicines that I have recommended them to dozens of my friends, and I have yet to hear of a single case in which they failed to give satisfaction."

Dr. Chase's medicines are for sale by all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Amusing Ads

Like the funny answers given by the school child, which have become known as howlers, the advertisements in daily papers are often extremely though unintentionally funny. In these advertisements the meaning is usually clear, but the construction has given a funny turn to the idea expressed.

A clothing house advertised: Blue men's striped shirts at 39 cents.

The Want advertisement column appears the richest field of fun as is shown by the following advertisements, many of which appeared in Canadian papers:

Wanted—A waitress to sleep at home; no Sunday work.

Wanted—An experienced man to run a saw mill out of town.

A young lady wishes her passage to Europe. Willing to take care of children and a good sailor.

Wanted, for—Methodist church, an organist, and boy to blow the same.

Wanted for Alberta, a man to take care of horses who can speak German.

Wanted—Women to sew buttons on the top flat of the building.

Wanted, a dog by a young man with pointed ears.

Wanted—Experienced nurse for bottled baby.

Wanted—A boy to be inside and partly outside the store.

Said the man in the aisle to the man sitting down: You ought to stand up and give that seat to me. I am the tired man in America. I have just taken part in a 60-mile motor-paced bicycle race.

Said the man in the seat to the man in the aisle: You have nothing on me in the line of exhaustion. Maybe you rode the race, but I sat and watched it.

At a recent birthday party a young lady began a song:

The autumn days have come; ten thousand leaves are falling.

She began too high. Ten thousand—she screamed and then stopped.

Start her at five thousand cried an auctioneer who was present.

Daddy's Bedtime

How the Little
Story — Groundhog Fooled
The Crows

The Crows Closed the Groundhog's Door.

GROUNDHOG day was over and gone, but the children's interest in the groundhog did not flag.

Jack and Evelyn always ran to the window when they got up to see if Mr. Groundhog could view his shadow that day. They were afraid that, after all, there might be something about the weather that Mr. Groundhog mightn't like and would send him back into his hole.

"I read a funny story about some crows and a groundhog," said daddy.

"The story happened in one of the middle states and was told by a farmer."

"The farmer was out in one of his fields when he heard a flock of crows making a great fuss about something. Crows are noisy creatures anyway, and at first he didn't pay much attention to them."

"Then he noticed that what they were chattering about was a little groundhog who was looking about for something to eat."

"Having made up their minds that they did not want the groundhog prowling about in their feeding ground, the crows flew over to the stone beside which the groundhog sat and gave him a vigorous scolding. Mr. Groundhog lifted up his nose as much as to say, 'Oh, who cares?'"

"Then the crows flew off to a tree and talked things over among themselves. An old grandfather crow, who seemed to be leader, gave his views in very angry tones, and the other crows appeared to be much taken with them."

"As if acting on his advice, they flew fiercely down at the little groundhog, who whisked into his hole before they could reach him."

"Boiling with rage, the crows pounced upon the hole and began scratching and clawing at the earth until they had the opening closed."

"Then they flew back to their trees and cawed their joy at thus having settled things for the groundhog. They thought he couldn't get out of his burrow."

"Clever crows they were, but not so clever as the little groundhog. One of the birds chanced to look at a little knoll a few feet away from the tree, and there was Master Groundhog calmly looking up at them."

"Well, those crows were so surprised and discouraged that they gave one great caw and, flapping their wings, flew off to the woods, leaving the groundhog to have everything as he liked."

"You see the groundhog, like all of his kind, had more than one door to his little home. So when the crows had closed the front door he just slipped out by the back way to see what they were doing."

Snips About Sharks

While the whale is regarded as the largest of creatures that haunt the sea, there are some sharks that can be compared in size with the former animals.

These giant sharks, however, are very rare, and are known under the name of the great whale shark and the basking shark.

The former, which attains a length of fifty feet, is found off the coast of India, Peru, and Lower California. The latter's most favorite haunt is the Arctic Ocean; but it is also found near the great whale shark.

These monsters, curiously enough, are quite harmless. Their teeth are very small, and they feed on tiny matter that floats on the surface of the sea. This matter the fish strains through its enormous gill rakers.

Enthusiast (at musical recital)—We shall hear more of this young man. Sufferer—Not to-night, I hope.

Our antagonist, said Edmund Burke is our helper. The criticism of our enemies is often just the looking-glass we need to correct our faults. The other side of the question may have some truth in it that it will do us good to take into account. He who can learn from antagonism and from obstacles will in the end be victorious.

Why He Worried

Mr. Upton Sinclair, the famous author of "The Jungle," was talking about a certain millionaire manufacturer.

The man is a canting hypocrite, said Mr. Sinclair. He reminds me of a Chicago restaurant keeper I heard of the other day. This man greeted an old patron one evening with a troubled countenance. What is the matter? the patron asked, you look blue.

I am blue, replied the restaurant keeper, and with a good reason. Four guests dined in a private room this evening. They had champagne, artichokes, duck, hot-house peas, the pick of everything and then they managed to slip out without paying.

Oh well, said the guest with a smile, you are rich, you can stand the loss.

Ah! said the restaurant keeper. I am not worrying about myself, but about my poor private-room waiter—a chap with five small children, for it is on him that this loss will fall!

Why a Horse is a Pharisee

A Swansea Sunday school teacher recently asked her class for a definition of the word Pharisee. One bright little chap answered, I expect he's a horse. Why, what makes you think that, asked the teacher, very much surprised. Well, because the Lord said, 'Whoe unto him,' was the reply.

Boy Shot

A shooting accident occurred on Monday which might have had fatal results, but luckily for the boy he was saved by a hair's breadth. A son of Mr. C. W. McWherter with some other boys were out shooting rabbits near the Fallen Timber creek, one of the lads having a 22 rifle. How the accident happened is unknown but the boy was found with a bullet wound in the mouth. He was brought into town immediately to Dr. Reid who made an examination and found that the bullet had knocked out four teeth, torn up the tongue considerable and finally lodged in the back of the neck, just missing the jugular vein in its passage. Drs. Reid and Weart held a consultation and decided that it was a case for the hospital as the X ray would have to be used and the lad was taken to Calgary by his father.

Dr. T. H. Quirk of Calgary Killed

Dr. Thomas H. Quirk, one of the most popular young men in Calgary, and William Guy, a paving inspector from Cornwall, Ont., were almost instantly killed at 10.45 Tuesday night at First street west and Twelfth avenue, Calgary, when an automobile, driven by Dr. Quirk, collided with a sprinkler of the Municipal Railway system.

In the auto with Dr. Quirk and W. Guy were Barney Collison, Crispin E. Smith and Hall Nye, all well known men of the city, but they only sustained slight injuries.

Dr. Quirk is a brother of Mr. J. A. Quirk, proprietor of the Golden West Hotel in Didsbury, and a son of Mrs. Macpherson, who is also living at the hotel, Archie Macpherson being a step brother.

The doctor, who had a very substantial practice in Calgary, and was counted as one of that city's leading citizens, was extremely well liked according to press reports, his acts of kindness, one of which was the cause of his death, and his charity which was done without ostentation will cause his untimely death to be felt by a great many people. He had been a resident of Calgary about five years, going there from Butte, Montana. He was a graduate of the University of California and his age was 35 years.

Besides his mother and brothers here, Dr. Quirk leaves a wife and two little boys who were visiting in Saskatchewan at the time of his death, and one sister who lives in New York. Mrs. Macpherson and the two brothers who live here will have the sympathy of the community in their sudden loss.

convention at Mousejaw this week. From Didsbury she will proceed north, where she will spend some time in the districts that are being organized in local option campaign work.

A Didsbury Boost

"Major Ambrose Quirk, manager of the Didsbury Hotel, spent Sunday in Calgary. Major Quirk is very enthusiastic over the crop prospects of his section and the rapidity with which the country around his town is settling up. "The crop is the best the Didsbury locality has ever grown," said the major at the King George hotel last night. "The wheat is grading better than ever before, which means that it will sell readily and at the best prices. The success of this year's farming means that the acreage will be greatly increased next season."—Calgary Albertan.
